Bucket Pins & Bushes represent a common area of wear on an excavator as strain can occur naturally during day-to-day work. There are ways to slow the wear by regular greasing and not overloading the bucket, but if the pins & bushes are not replaced periodically, the damage can spread to more costly areas of the machine such as the hydraulics.

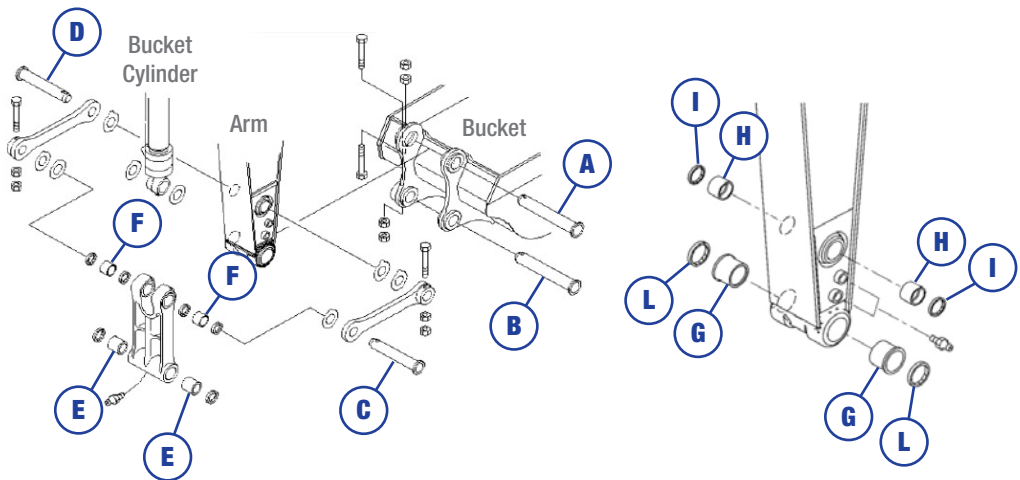

How to spot if pins & bushes need replacing:

- Significant metallic crunching noise from the arm
- Any visible slack at the pivot points during operation
